Seeking Man Who Shot Sam Macino

More Witnesses Examined in Effort to Determine Who Shot Macino at Marlborough—The People Meet Their Case—Defense Wants Doctor's Testimony.

An adjourned hearing was held Wednesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Hutchins at Marlborough in the matter of The People against Angelo Giarardi who is being held on a charge of assault in the first degree in connection with the shooting of Sam Macino near Marlborough on September 24. When arraigned before Justice Hutchins on a charge of assault, Giarardi, through his attorneys, Frank W. Brooks and Chris. J. Flanagan, demanded an examination, and an adjournment was taken at that time until Wednesday afternoon. Cleon B. Murray, assistant district attorney, appeared for The People.

Dr. Ferguson of Marlborough was examined as to the injuries of Macino. He had not attended the man since the day he was shot. He testified as to his condition on the day of the shooting when he was brought to his office for attention. Macino is still at St. Luke's Hospital and his condition is still serious. Dr. Charles Townsend is in attendance.

Chase Through the Vineyard.

State Trooper Alsford, who was at the scene of the shooting within five minutes after it took place, was placed on the stand for the first time and told his story of the case as it has developed under his investigation. Alsford was traveling north on his motorcycle on his way to Highland. He came to the scene of the shooting just as a motor truck rolled to a stop. Macino was lying on the road and at first he appeared to have been hit by a car. He was bleeding and groaning and begging for assistance. This was opposite the Rusk vineyard. The driver of the truck, Otto Twyman of Poughkeepsie, told the trooper that the man was shot. George Rusk and Mr. Presler, who were working in the Rusk vineyard, came to the road and it was then that Alsford was informed that two men had gone through the vineyard past where Rusk and Presler were at work. Trooper Alsford told Rusk to assist in the search for the two men. They went into the vineyard and overtook the men. A command to halt was not obeyed and Trooper Alsford said he fired a shot and the man was running over the hill stopped. He took him back to the road and there turned him over to young Rusk to hold while he went after the other man. When he first saw the man running in the vineyard he was about 35 yards away. The man caught was Galar, who is now in jail, held as a material witness.

What Galar Said.

Trooper Alsford testified that when he captured Galar he asked who had done the shooting and Galar said that he had not done it, he did not know about it, but to see the man in the Hudson car. In reply to a question as to what car, Galar said it was a Hudson sport model car. On the stand Galar, at his first examination, said he did not know what kind of a car it was that he had been riding in before the shooting.

Following the Hudson Car.

After turning Galar over to Rusk, Alsford started in pursuit of the car which he was informed had gone toward Kingston. Three times on the road he stopped and asked if a Hudson car had gone by. One man informed him that a Hudson car had passed about a minute before, going very fast. Alsford stopped at Milton and left work to phone the Kingston police to stop the car. He then gave chase, stopping at Highland to inquire which way the car had gone. Near Port Ewen he said he caught a glimpse of the car going fast. He lost it in the traffic, but again at the entrance to the bridge he saw the car on the bridge. It was held up by the police and Giarardi was taken to jail. Trooper Alsford testified that on the way he was close to the car and was traveling east; at one time the car was reported as passing only a minute ahead of him. He drove his motorcycle as fast as it would go at times and testified that the motorcycle would make 80 miles an hour. He arrived at Kingston about the time the car did. He said the car was a black sport Hudson with the paint dulled by use.

Third Man Escaped.

He returned to Marlborough and attempted to locate the third man who was seen in company with Galar; he did not see him and the man is still at large. He testified that five shells were found at the scene of the shooting and turned over to him by those who found them. Later a gun was found by Wesley Terwilliger near a spot where it was indicated something had been thrown from a car.

Did Not Know Companion.

Mr. Brooks on cross-examination asked Trooper Alsford how many times he saw the injured man in the hospital after the shooting. He also said that it was twice, and he had talked with the man. He also said that he asked him who did the shooting and Galar said that there were three other men in the car. He did not know who was driving the car or who the other man in the front seat was. Galar told him that the car was stopped near Marlborough and three men got out, including Macino. He had remained in the car while the three were out. There were shots fired and he jumped out of the car and started after the man who was running up through the vineyard.

King Prorogues Parliament

Premier MacDonald Meets Eleven Members of the House of Commons—Premier MacDonald, head of the Laborite government, formally announced in Commons this afternoon that King George had agreed to his request for dissolution of the present Parliament. If the Irish boundary commission bill is completed in time, Parliament probably will be prorogued tonight and a general election held October 29, the premier said.

The downfall of the Laborite government was caused by passage of a motion censuring it for quashing a criminal court case against the editor of a Communist newspaper. The cabinet decided to resign if the Tory motion of censure was adopted. The vote on the motion was 364 in favor and 198 against it. Leaders of all parties are denying responsibility for the election.

A meeting of the parliamentary Labor party, Laborite members of Commons, was held during the afternoon to discuss the situation. King George, who cut short his vacation because of the political crisis, arrived in London early this morning and was enthusiastically received. He went at once to Buckingham Palace.

Despite the fact that Premier MacDonald denounced Communism, this is expected to be one of the big campaign issues. The Laborites will stand upon their record in office, emphasizing the efforts that the premier has made in behalf of world peace.

In an interview granted before his departure from the castle, Premier MacDonald said: "I regret the turn of events, but it is not of our seeking. It has been forced on us. I would have been glad if we had been able to carry on our policy, which I believe was for the promotion of the common weal."

A note of confidence was sounded in Labor's ranks when Clynes told the annual labor conference, now in session: "We were unable to get fair treatment from Commons last night, but we are getting it from the throne today in authority for the dissolution of Parliament."

The election falls at an unfavorable time for the Labor party. Unemployment is mounting. The cost of living has ascended in the nine months of Labor rule.

Last night's defeat was the eleventh suffered by Premier MacDonald. He followed the adverse vote by the immediate suggestion of adjournment.

Shenandoah Facing Most Difficult Task of Her 9,000 Mile Flight—Will Travel at 5,000 Foot Level.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Aboard U. S. S. Shenandoah, en route to San Diego, Oct. 9.—(Via wireless to International News Service.)—Fifty miles out of Fort Worth, Commander Zachary Landsdowne announced that he was seeking an altitude of 2,000 feet until the mountains are reached, when he will take the big craft up to a 5,000 foot level. Tucson should be reached about daylight tomorrow, Commander Landsdowne said, flying from there to Yuma and thence to San Diego.

"The pride of the navy" pointed her nose westward at 9:17 o'clock today and headed directly into what its officers consider the most difficult task of the 9,000 mile trans-continental flight, clearing the Rocky mountains.

The Shenandoah's fuel tanks were refilled and food supply replenished for the jump of 1,400 miles to San Diego over the course of the 'round-the-world fliers.

Four Cases in Police Court

Bernard Mading of Hillside, N. J., was arrested Wednesday for speeding 33 miles an hour on Broadway. The arrest was made by Officer Kuehn. Later in police court Judge Robert G. Groves imposed a fine of $15 which was paid.

James Masten and Charles McCarthy were arrested Wednesday night at North Front street and Washington avenue, by Officers Kuehn and Van Buren. Masten was chasing some small boys down North Front street. McCarthy was with him. Judge Groves fined each $10 which they paid.

George Monroe of No. 148 Henry street was arrested Wednesday night on a warrant obtained by William Lifer, who charged Monroe with assault in the third degree. Before Judge Groves in police court it was brought out that Lifer had been boarding at the Monroe home and when he attempted to remove his trunk there was trouble. In the mixup Lifer had the little finger on his left hand mangled. Judge Groves on Monroe's plea of guilty fined him $5, which he paid.

Chicago Fearing Negro Race Riot

Negro Charged with Attacking Two White Girls Beaten to Death by Baseball Bat—Police Arrest Alleged Slayer.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Chicago, Oct. 9.—Emergency details of police were rushed to the "Valley district" to prevent a possible race riot, feared as a result of the lynching of a negro early today, after, it is said, he had attacked two white girls.

The victim, William Bell, 29, was clubbed to death with a baseball bat in the hands of one of hundreds of infuriated citizens who milled about him.

The girls, Betty Greenblatt, 18, and Bertha Deutsch, told police they were on their way home when Bell came out of his house and accosted them, made an insulting remark and showed them a handful of bills. They screamed and he grabbed Miss Deutsch by the shoulder. A number of men in a nearby restaurant heard her cries and came to her assistance. In less than five minutes a mob had formed.

Before police arrived, Bell was dead and the mob had dispersed.

Police are holding Otto Eppstein, a night watchman, as the actual slayer of Bell. He had been identified, police said, by two men who also are being held, as the man who arrived on the scene armed with a baseball bat, a few seconds after the mob had started to congregate about the negro.

It was he, police said, who, as the throng stood menacingly around Bell, walked up to the man and felled him without uttering a word. Bell crumpled to the ground and is believed to have died almost instantly.

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—Canadian coast provinces today notified the government that they were a unit in entering a protest against the Japanese amendments to the protocol at Geneva and that they believed the move of the Japanese was an attempt to tear down "closed door" policies effective in Canada.

The provinces in their notification said they would resist any effort to jeopardize Canada's right to deal with its own internal legislation.

Chinaman Gave Tourists Thrill

They Were Looking for It in Chinatown Restaurant When Lom Hank Supplied It—Employees Second His Efforts.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Oct. 9.—Frightened almost eyes watched the streets of Chinatown today from behind curtained windows and extra police paced the pavements to prevent a third outbreak of Tong warfare there.

A Chinese restaurant proprietor was shot dead in the last affray which followed by a few hours another fight in which two Chinese were wounded.

The Ling Nom Low restaurant, owned by Lom Hank, was crowded with diners, many of whom were tourists looking for a thrill, when a scowling Chinese thrust open the door and provided it. He shot Lom through the head, then opened fire on the other Chinese, ignoring the frightened occidentals.

The Chinese employed by Lom drew pistols and returned two strangers' fire. Once the murderer had emptied his pistol, he spun on a heel and lost his trail in an alley.

Then the Chinese in the restaurant locked the doors, refusing to let the white diners out. Police pounded their way in and sent the whites on their way, holding six Chinese for questioning.

Detectives said the Chinese quarter had been upset since last June, when several members of a Tong were banished when funds of the organization disappeared. They went to Cleveland, Ohio, and there got into trouble with police. A rival New York Tong furnished bail for them, brought them back here and admitted them into membership.

The brawl that preceded Lom's assassination came when a Chinese, Tom Fong, took a position in the middle of a street opening into the Bowery and begging shooting into doorways. A passing policeman shot him in the lung. Lee Yin Deo, a restaurant owner, was shot in the shoulder during Tom's bombardment.

Governor Sick In Boston Hotel

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, Oct. 9.—Governor "Al" Smith of New York, who is confined to his bed in a local hotel with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, said today his departure for New York depended altogether upon his condition. The governor's right foot is so painfully affected that he has been unable to walk or to put on his shoes. The governor, however, cheerfully insisted he was "getting on all right." He believes he will be able to return to his home state in time to go through with his campaign speeches. Dr. J. H. Stevens, who is attending Governor Smith, announced today that the governor could not return to New York this afternoon. Governor Smith's right ankle is the most painfully affected by the rheumatic attack, the physician said.

Federal Courts May Get Scandal

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 9.—If Ban Johnson, president of the American League, wants alleged corruption in baseball investigated he will have to present the facts to the department of justice, Attorney General Stone announced today.

Bribery such as was alleged in relation to the action of a member of the New York Giants and Philadelphia National League team, does not constitute a prima facie violation of the Federal law, according to Stone. However, he explained some of the details of such a case might place it within Federal jurisdiction.

The attorney general is inclined to believe that baseball is interstate commerce and considering this phase should corruption exist, it might come within the authority of the Federal courts.

State Urges Federal Prison

County Jails Now Crowded With Federal Prisoners, Especially in Northern Counties—Additional Government Institution Needed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The state commission of prisons, acting on the suggestion of its president, John S. Kennedy, has recommended to the United States government the erection in New York state of an institution for the detention of Federal prisoners, both before and after conviction.

A copy of the resolution adopted by the commission, urging the erection of such an institution, has been sent to United States Attorney-General Stone and to the state's representatives in Congress.

This action was taken by the commission, its members said, because of the crowded conditions of jails, particularly in counties along the northern boundary.

Nearly every jail in the northern counties is filled to capacity because of Federal prisoners, according to the commission. Many jails in other sections of the state also are crowded.

Predicts Radio In Every Pocket

Conservative Government Scientist Expects Big Advance in Simplification of Sets—May Broadcast Movies in Five Years.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 9.—What the next decade will bring to America radio was discussed today by Dr. J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio laboratory of the United States bureau of standards, and one of the leading authorities at the national convention here.

Broadcasting of moving pictures of events as well as the words of the speakers, music or other entertainment is so far from an idle dream to Dr. Dellinger, a conservative government scientist, that he put it down as a certainty in five years.

Dellinger doesn't anticipate moving pictures radio sets cheap enough for every home, but he did say that they will become as common as the home movie projector now on the market.

Radio will put aviation on the present safety plane of automobile traffic, according to Dellinger, who said that increasing effectiveness of the wireless would enable planes to fly and land at night and in the fog just as readily as in full daylight.

A great advance is anticipated by the scientist in the simplification of radio sets. Dellinger said that the puzzling dials would be replaced by push buttons for automatic tuning in.

"Radio sets will be reduced in size until the pocket receiving set may some day be little more bulky than the watch," Dellinger said. "A radio in every home may be replaced by a radio in every pocket."

AN APPRECIATION.

Mrs. Herbert's Quiet Life Endeared Her to Many Friends.

A quiet life, free from any show or pretense, and moving in a smaller and smaller circle as her health failed, ended on Wednesday morning when Anne Turner Herbert died.

She lived for her home and for her friends, who alone know her strength of character and her sweetness of disposition. Intense loyalty marked her friendships. Periods of time might elapse when she went out little and saw but few people, yet the flame of her love never wavered for those to whom she had once given her regard, and her fidelity was as a rock to lean upon.

The simplicity of her mind, the modesty of her heart, and the integrity of her spirit lived with her, but they will not die with her. They are preserved as a tradition among those of us who were her friends.

Giants Leading With One Run In Fourth

Nehf and Peckinpah, Injured Players, Start In Today's Tilt—Giants Score Run In Opening Round—Zachary Off To Bad Start.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Griffith Stadium, Washington, Oct. 9.—Faced with the alternative of winning this afternoon or accepting second money, the Washington Senators stepped out for the sixth game of the world's series with the New York Giants, grimly determined to say it with base hits. They need only two victories in two games remaining to be played. The writer needs only say $999,950. He would then be a millionaire.

But somebody seems to be holding out on him and it is all too probable that fate will hold out on the Washington Senators. Defeat this afternoon will mean their automatic elimination and a fourth world series title for John J. McGraw.

The Giants were an 8 to 5 choice for the series, but the Senators were even money choices to win today's game, and mayhap rightly so. They had Zachary, the man who pitched their best game of the series, to shoot against Art Nehf's badly swollen left digits.

It was a most benign day and a goodly crowd was there, as they say at the bartenders social. Seats were worth their weight in player pianos and the speculators did a thriving business. It was a late crowd, but when it did come, it filled the park to its bulking capacity of 26,000.

The Senators were a confident crew when they came on the field at 12:30. Roger Peckinpah, the one legged short stop, immediately clutched a bat and began socking drives to distant sectors. He said he was ready to resume his place at short stop and looked the part. Sam Rice, who has been hitting the dimensions of his ankle brace, hit the first ball pitched to him over the right field wall while the crowd yowled.

"We had all the worst of the breaks in New York," quoth Stanley Harris, the juvenile understudy to Napoleon. "I think you will see a change here beginning immediately. We expect to win today and clinch the title by repeating tomorrow. I see nothing particularly difficult in that."

"If it is at all possible, and I think it will be, Peck will play short stop in both games. You will then see a tremendous difference in the Senators."

The Giants strolled on the field at 12:50 in their usual careless manner. Up to the last moment, McGraw declined to commit himself on his line up.

However, the Giant players themselves were not at all tardy in letting it be known that Nehf was the pitching nominee and none other. The unreserved sections in the bleachers were almost filled when the Giants began batting practice at 1 o'clock. Bentley was used as the pitcher in order to accustom the Giants to the left hand hurling that was expected from Zachary.

A dramatic ceremony was observed just before the Giants went out for fielding practice. At a given signal the players of both clubs approached the home plate and lining up on either side of it stood with bare heads out of respect for the memory of Jake Daubert, Cincinnati first baseman, who died this morning. The entire assemblage joined the players in offering a minute's silent prayer.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge arrived at 1:57 as the band struck up the national anthem.

Today's lineup. The Giants and Senators lined up for the game this afternoon as follows:

Never Formed Iron is Red Blood Food

If your blood is thin, pale and watery, keeping you weak, nervous and run-down, you need rich, red blood with plenty of iron in it to give you strength, energy and endurance. It would surely make you see how in two short weeks a little more iron in your blood would help renew the elasticity, the strength and energy of your blood. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the good out of your food. Without it, nothing you eat does you any good. Your food simply passes through you and your body is literally starving on three big meals a day.

This newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron is like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood in concentrated form. It may be had from all druggists with a guarantee of entirely satisfactory results or you may order it from the Nuxated Iron Builds Rich, Red Blood

BRYAN OGRE LOOMS IF VOTERS SUPPORT LAFOLLETTE TICKET

Coolidge or Chaos Is Sole Choice of Citizens as Deadlock Menace Threatens.

LITTLE DOUBT WHO SENATE WOULD NAME

Analysis of Situation Shows Danger of Nebraskan Going to White House.

Coolidge or chaos. That is about what the coming election resolves itself into. A vote for Davis is a vote for Bryan. It is generally believed that Davis cannot possibly muster the necessary majority of the electoral votes to be named President. A vote for LaFollette is a vote for Bryan. It is not claimed by the most enthusiastic supporter of LaFollette that he could by any remote chance be elected. What he could do, however, is throw the election into the congress, with the chances favoring the naming of Bryan as vice president. The house being unable to give a majority to any one of the candidates for President, as it is at present organized, the senate, under the Constitution, would elect a vice president and the vice president elected by the senate would become President on March 4. That is why a vote for Davis or LaFollette is a vote for Bryan, and a vote for Coolidge is a vote for Coolidge.

The official counting of the electoral votes is not done until February. The Twelfth amendment to the Constitution provides as follows for the conduct of the congress in case the electoral college makes no choice:

Constitutional Provision. "And if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as President, the house of representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote, a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. And if the house of representatives shall not choose a President when the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the vice president shall act as President, as in the case of the death or any constitutional disability of the President."

"The person having the greatest number of votes as vice president, shall be the vice president, if such a number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the senate shall choose the vice president; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of senators and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice."

Meets in February.

Complying with this provision of the Constitution, when the time comes in February for the Presidential electors to report, and it is discovered that there is no majority choice for President, then the house and senate will begin to ballot. But this official report of the electors does not occur until a month before it is time for the next administration to take office. From election day, November 4, until some solution of the tangle is found—and the untangling of the knot cannot come before February—the country will be facing the possibility of a deadlock, or the putting of a man into the highest office of the land who was not voted for as President, who was not even elected by his party for President.

If LaFollette could secure enough votes to keep Coolidge from having a majority of the electoral votes, throwing the election of the President into the house, the house and senate would not independently of each other in their votes. That is, the senate does not await the result of the effort of the house to elect a President before proceeding to the selection of the vice president.

Vote Is by States.

As each state, no matter how large its population and its representation in the house, has only one vote, it is obvious that those states having a majority of representatives of one political faith will cast the vote of that state for their party nominee. As there are 48 states, and a majority of all of them is necessary to the selection of a President, a successful aspirant must have the votes of at least 25 states.

It should be emphasized that it is the present house of representatives and the present senate that vote for President and vice president in the event of the election being thrown into the congress. New congressmen and senators elected this fall will have nothing whatever to do with it.

The present house of representatives is so made up that there is little likelihood it can make a choice. Democrats make up a majority of two delegations of 30 states, while 23 state delegations have Republican majorities. In 5 other states the representation is evenly divided, and those states would have no vote to cast. Those states are Maryland, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire and New Jersey.

Some Not Regular.

The 23 states showing a nominal Republican majority might not all vote for Coolidge. There are a few where the Republicanism of some representatives is open to question, and if LaFollette should carry those states, it is not unlikely that their votes in the house would go to LaFollette, despite the Republican label borne by such congressmen. Should any of these states vote for LaFollette, or if the states should vote as they line up on paper—20 Democratic, 23 Republican, and 5 unable to vote, no choice could be made, as 25 states are needed to elect the President.

Attention would then center on the senate. Here the state rule does not apply. Each senator of the 96 has a separate vote. For a quorum, two-thirds of the 96 must be present, or 64, and for a choice of vice president, a bare majority, or 49, is necessary.

However, in the senate only two candidates for vice president having the highest showing in the electoral college may be voted for, and this would narrow the choice down to General Dawes and Governor Bryan.

Present Situation Important. As the present senate would select, the situation there now is important. There are nominally 51 Republican senators, but this number includes LaFollette of Wisconsin and Brookhart of Iowa, and others who of late have seldom voted with the Republicans. Forty-three senators are listed as Democrats, and two, Ladd and Frazier, are listed as Farmer-Laborites.

If Bryan can hold the 43 Democratic senators in line and get the votes of the two Farmer-Labor senators, this would give him a nucleus of 45 votes. By securing four of the so-called Republicans, such as Brookhart and LaFollette, this majority would put into the White House a man for whom the American people had not voted for President, and who would be a minority choice.

If Bryan could secure only the 43 Democratic senators, the two Farmer-Labor senators, and three such men as LaFollette, the election would be deadlocked, and the country thrown into a state of chaos never before faced. Throwing the election into the congress would of itself have a terrific effect upon business and industry the country over, causing a wave of depression which would affect everyone, as this would cause months of uncertainty before a choice by the congress was attempted. If, on top of this, the senate should get into a deadlock as the house is certain to, the depression might easily become a panic, with terrific and far-reaching results.

Other Possibilities.

There is the outside chance, in the event of Coolidge failing to receive a majority of the electoral votes, that when the matter came to the senate, such Democrats as Glass of Virginia, Bruce of Maryland and Underwood of Alabama would vote for General Dawes, the Republican nominee, rather than put such a man as Bryan in the White House.

A large body of thought in the United States holds to the opinion that the whole purpose of LaFollette is to throw the election into the congress, where he and his followers probably would wield the balance of power, and this small group would name the next President of the United States. Naturally, this would put that President under heavy obligation to the LaFollette group, and he as its leader, would exercise tremendous power, even though his followers represent the smallest fraction of the makeup of the United States senate.

The summing up of the situation is, this:

Voting for LaFollette is voting for Bryan.
Voting for Davis, by the same analysis, is voting for Bryan.
Voting for Coolidge is voting for Coolidge.

Women Not Swayed by False Pledges

They Believe Firmly in Coolidge, Says Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, National Leader.

Republican women are not allowing their emotions to run away with them. There will be no split in their ranks. Promises held out by LaFollette and the Socialist-Third party, hold no appeal for them. They will vote for Coolidge. This is the manner in which Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee, sums up the outlook for November 4th.

Mrs. Hert says that without exception reports of Republican national committeewomen from every state are the same in one respect. They all say that women are for Coolidge because they believe in him as a man. They know of the high principles for which he stands. They have watched his record during the past year and see that he is a man of conviction, and at all times stands for that which he thinks is for the good of the majority. They say that women appreciate his firm stand for an economical administration—the fact that he has evaded no issue, compromised no principle. They know that President Coolidge and the Republican party stand for protection. This means much to the woman in industry and the wife of the working man.

Melodious Instrumental

What'll I Do (from "The Music Box Revue") Victor Salon Orchestra 19433 .75
Marcheta (Lara Song of Old Mexico) Victor Salon Orchestra

First record by this remarkable artist-organization. An enormously popular waltz hit arranged as a concert number, with a whole melody in violin-harmonics; and a companion scored with exquisite artistry.

Light Vocal Selections

Hard Hearted Hannah Belle Baker 19436 .75
Sweet Little You Belle Baker
Fox-trotty songs, the first of them in the manner of the African sister. You may have danced to "Sweet Little You." Fetching numbers, pleasingly sung, and clearly and strongly recorded.

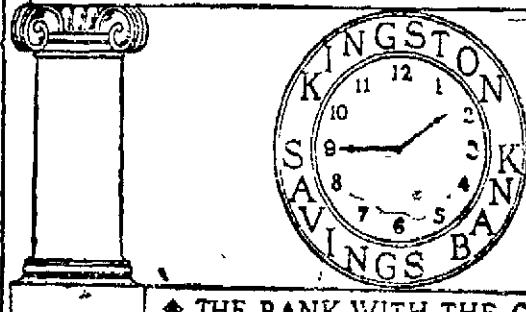

How Come You Do Me, Like You Do? Frank Crumit 19437 .75
Knock at the Door Frank Crumit
Two songs in the "blues" rhythm, but happier in general idea. The melodies are light and catching; they are sung to the piano.

Ten for Two—Fox Trot The Benson Orchestra of Chicago (from "No, No, Nanette") 19438 .75
I've a Garden in Sweden—Fox Trot Waring's Pennsylvanians
A melodious, light, springy fox trot, with deft changes of key; and then a jolly companion for it, robust and full of color.

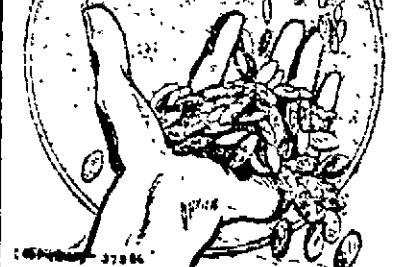

She Loves Me—Fox Trot International Novelty Orchestra 19439 .75
Southern Sue—Fox Trot The Virginians
Two hilarious numbers. The first has unusual piano and saxophone rhythms; the second begins—and ends—to the choo-choo of a big locomotive.

Basketball Here On October 15

Kingston Team of Hudson River League Will Play Paterson Quintet of Metropolitan League—New Players Expected to Make Local Five.

Wednesday evening, October 15, the big drama of the armory, will be the scene of much action. The customary soldierly appearance of the place will be changed for the popular winter sport, basketball. The Kingston team of the proposed Hudson River League, will swing into action at this time in an exhibition game with the Paterson quintet of the Metropolitan League.

"Mickey" Husta, Carl Husta, Artus, Nester, Benny Borgman, Charlie Powers and Sugarman will be wearing a Kingston uniform together with the new faces in the persons of Miller and the famous Borgman's brother. For the past week a number of the players, who will try for the local representative team this season, have been practicing in the armory net the remaining players arriving today with Manager Morgenweck. Sugarman will assist in developing this year's team.

The date of starting the regular games in the Hudson River League has not yet been decided upon. The failure of Poughkeepsie to enter a club has held up the schedule. The cities that are expected to enter teams are Kingston, Glens Falls, Gloversville, Amsterdam, Cohoes and Hudson.

Tolerance Period Ended Wednesday

Motor Vehicle Operators Who Have Not Secured Licenses Are Liable to Arrest—State Estimates There Are 10,000 Delinquents in Ulster.

The period of tolerance granted motor vehicle operators to secure their license expired, Wednesday night at midnight, and according to the estimate of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau, there are at least 10,000 operators in Ulster county who are liable to arrest unless they can show the requisite operator's or a chauffeur's license. There were issued at the motor vehicle department in the county clerk's office up to the time the office closed Wednesday evening, 11,653 operator licenses and applications for chauffeur licenses have been received from about 500, of which about 400 have been given road tests and granted permits. Inspector Fraser, who arrived in Kingston Wednesday and gave road tests to about fifty and expected to stay here until Friday evening, received a telegram Wednesday evening from Albany to report elsewhere. County Clerk John H. Sax has requested the State Motor Vehicle Commissioner to send an inspector here to give road tests. According to Commissioner Charles A. Hartnett, police officials have been notified that the period of grace has expired.

Endurance Run Half Completed

100-Hour Endurance and Economy Run of Chevrolet Touring Car Will End Saturday Noon—Many Guesses as to Mileage.

The Chevrolet touring car sent out by Sutfitt, Inc., on a 100-hour endurance and economy run has completed more than half of the run and up until 8 o'clock this morning, the 48th hour of the run, had consumed 48 gallons of gasoline and three quarts of oil. The mileage per gallon of gasoline will not be made known as the total miles covered will not be announced until the close of the run. No stops were made by the car Wednesday afternoon or night except to check in at the local Chevrolet station for oil and gas and a check by the observer of the Automobile Club of Ulster County under whose supervision the run is being conducted. The motor has been running constantly for the entire time. A stop of four minutes was made Wednesday to assist another Chevrolet owner who had tire trouble and had no jack. In the guessing contest which is being conducted in connection with the run, Mr. Sutfitt, president of the company, has decided that in case there are two persons tying for any of the prizes, both persons will be awarded the prize. The contest is open to all persons interested in the run and the prizes are cash allowances on the purchase price of a new Chevrolet car. The first prize is $750, second prize is an allowance of 50 and the third prize is an allowance. Already a large number of guesses as to how far the car will run in the 100-hour test have been received.

The run will come to a close at the garage of Sutfitt, Inc., at noon Saturday. The speedometer will remain sealed, however, until 8 o'clock at night when all guesses must be in and at which time the seal will be broken and the number of miles covered will be made known. At present even the drivers do not know how far the car has traveled. The car being used on the run had covered over 11,000 miles before entering into the contest.

September's Many Names
September falls within the zodiacal sign of Libra, the balance, or scales. September gets its name from the Latin numeral septem, because the month was the seventh of the ancient Roman calendar, which had but ten months. In the days of Charlemagne the French called the season the harvest month. Among the early Saxons it was known as harley month. The American Indians called it "Moon of Falling Leaves."

Seeking Man who Shot Sam Marino

testified that he saw a car standing still near where the man lay in the road. He saw the car, a Hudson, start up the road. When he arrived at the scene of the shooting he stopped and saw the man in the road. The State Trooper arrived about as soon as he did. There was one man in the car when it passed him and the two men went over the fence through the vineyard. He could not identify any of them.

What They Told Pressler.

George Rusk and Mr. Pressler, who were cutting grapes in the vineyard near the scene, heard the dogs bark near the road, they started in that direction and heard shots. Two men came up, walking through the vineyard, and they asked them what the shooting was. One said something about the man in the car. Rusk heard the car start. He later looked at the scene of the shooting and five shells from a 38 automatic were found. All lay at the side of the road near the right, except one which was near the center of the road. Mr. Pressler said that the men who came through the vineyard said the man in a car did the shooting.

Gun 150 Yards Away.

Wesley Terwilliger, who found the gun, was examined and said he found the gun buried in soft earth about 150 yards from where the shooting took place. It was over the fence, behind some bushes. Cross-examined by Mr. Brooks, he said that he did not smell powder on the gun but that it was a half hour after the shooting that the gun was located.

Saw Object Thrown From Car.

Palapoli, who was at his fruit stand north of the scene and who saw the man in the car throw an object over the fence where the gun was found, was examined. Joseph Brenna acted as interpreter for Mr. Palapoli. He testified that he saw the car pass. But heard shots a short time before but could not see the scene as a curve in the road obstructed his view. The object thrown from the car was small and dark.

Galo Refuses to Answer.

Peter Galo, the man captured by Trooper Alsdorf and the man identified as one of those who passed through the Rusk vineyard, was next called to the stand. Galo is being held in jail as a material witness. Galo said that he was a blacksmith but had not worked for the past two years at his trade. He last worked for the Pennsylvania railroad at Philadelphia. Eight months ago had worked at the General Electric at Schenectady.

Assistant District Attorney Murray asked Galo if he had been working in Newburgh at the hotel where he was employed on September 24, the day of the shooting. Mr. Brooks objected to Galo answering the question and instructed him not to answer any question in relation to the affair in which Sam Marino was shot. Mr. Brooks stated that Galo would exercise his right to refuse to answer any question put to him which might in any way tend to incriminate him or degrade him. Galo refused to answer when the question was put, and after several more questions were asked with the same result he left the stand.

Mr. Murray asked the court to instruct the witness to answer the questions put to him. Mr. Brooks objected to this, and when Galo complied with his attorney's advice and refused to answer he was allowed to leave the stand and The People rested.

Victim's Statement to Cunningham.
Mr. Brooks called Sergeant James Cunningham of the State Troopers to the stand. Cunningham visited the hospital at Newburgh and talked with the victim of the shooting. He said that Marino had told him that Galo, Ginardi, himself and a man named Tony had been in a car on the way to Poughkeepsie. The car had stopped and he was shot, but he did not know who did the shooting.

He refused to make any further statement as to who did the shooting.

To Take Doctor's Testimony.
A request was also made to have Dr. Townsend, who is now in charge of the injured man, testify, but he could not be located and as he had not been subpoenaed an adjournment was requested by the defendant.

After the testimony of Dr. Townsend is taken and the condition of the man in the hospital is known, application will be made to the supreme court to have Ginardi admitted to bail.

An adjournment was taken until 5 o'clock Friday afternoon at Marlborough, when Dr. Townsend will be examined.

300 ACCOMMODATED
AT EPWORTH HALL.

Epworth Hall, the new addition to Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, was put to a severe test Wednesday night and found adequate in every respect, the occasion being the annual chicken pie supper given by the Winner's Sunday School Class. Heretofore, persons desiring to take dinner at the church would enter the room and receive a number, and pass through the unpleasant experience of watchful waiting. By and by their number would be called, but none of the old time methods were used Wednesday night. In the large dining hall, three hundred persons can be seated and cared for at one time, and at no time during the evening was anyone required to wait for a seat. They began serving promptly at five o'clock. There was a continuous stream of hungry individuals who were greatly surprised to find they could walk into the room, go immediately to the table and be served. The large hotel range, the steam table and the coffee urn made it possible to serve everything hot. The next event of this kind will be the turkey dinner to be given by the Ladies' Auxiliary on October 28th, to be served in connection with the fair.

When the stores close Saturday night, Congoleum Week comes to an end. The special bargain prices which have prevailed all this week will be withdrawn. Your opportunity to buy America's most popular floor-covering at these reduced prices will be gone.

If you have used Gold-Seal Congoleum Rugs you know their beauty—their remarkable money and labor-saving features—and you cannot fail to appreciate the bargains that these special prices represent.

If you have not yet had Congoleum in your home, you should see what beautiful, sanitary, and practical floor-covering you can buy for amazingly little money.

You will find Oriental motifs in warm, rich tones for living and dining-room—dainty flowered patterns that bring a fresh, bright look to bedrooms—and, for kitchen, bathroom and pantry there is a fine range of conventional designs.

Waterproof and Easy to Clean

Gold-Seal Congoleum is waterproof, and non-slip. Neither dust, dirt, nor spilled liquids can penetrate its smooth, sanitary surface. A quick going-over with a damp mop makes Congoleum as spotless as when new—its colors fresh and sparkling.

Lies Flat Without Fastening

No tacks, nails, or cement are ever required to hold it in place. It never curls or "kicks up" at the edges.

Gold-Seal Congoleum By-the-Yard

The same durable, waterproof material as Congoleum Rugs, and made in tasteful designs for use over the entire floor.

Gold-Seal Congoleum Rug-Border

If it is desired to cover the floor space between a large centre rug and the walls, there is Congoleum Rug-Border in several realistic reproductions of hardwood flooring.

All the Gold-Seal Congoleum offered in this sale is fresh, new goods. All of it carries the famous Gold Seal pledge of "Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Back." Remember, there is only one "Congoleum" and it is identified by the Gold Seal pasted on the face of every pattern.

This is Your Last Chance

If you put it off too long something may prevent your going. And then you will have to pay more for your Congoleum. After tomorrow, prices will positively go up to their former levels.

Your Fire Burden

This is Fire Prevention Week

Every dollar lost through fire adds to your fire burden. You pay your share of it in one way or another.

You pay through higher insurance rates—for rates and losses maintain a fairly constant ratio.

You pay through the loss of material—for wealth that is burned up ceases to work for its owner, for civilization, for you.

You pay through your fellow men's unemployment. You suffer when another continues to be a consumer, but ceases to be a producer.

You pay through business friction. Every unfulfilled contract, every failure to deliver, every obstacle to turning wheels anywhere, checks and slows up and hampers to some degree the wheels that are turning everywhere else.

What are you going to do about it?

Resolve now that no fire shall ever be charged to your carelessness or negligence. Lend your whole-hearted cooperation to the national movement to prevent fire.

Tuesday, November 11, will be held Friday evening, October 10, at 8

work to date in an effort to make the annual affair this year a grand suc-

ing committee is working on a new scheme of decoration for the armory
and those who attend the Armistice

in Federal Prison.

Mrs. F. W. Bergeron, of Menasha, Wis., was officially notified by the War Department in 1918 that her son, Urban John Bergeron, had been killed in action in France.
She did not believe it. Later his body was sent her, and although she had a stone erected over it and tenderly cared for the grave, she still believed her son lived. Now, seven years after his "death," she has located him in "Robert" St.
Chair, for the last eighteen months
a prisoner in the Federal prison in Atlanta, Ga., where, a weakened,
pale-faced veteran of the World War, he is fighting for his life against disease. She doesn't know whose body she had buried.

school are invited to meet at the home of Mrs. Percy W. Gazlay Fri-

final plans will be made and com-

The annual Farm and Home Bureau community meeting will be held October 21st, this year. The first of its interesting features will be a competitive one act sketch called "Joshing the Janitor," which twenty or more communities in the county are putting on at their Farm and Home Bureau meetings. The same judges will score these productions in all the communities and the one receiving the highest number of credits will have the honor of presenting the sketch at the annual banquet and will receive a prize.
Ross Coddington and Gus Sahler are to impersonate the two characters of the play in our community and every one will agree that Accord has a prize winning team and a good prospect of carrying off the honors in the county. At the same meeting the games will be played that were taught by Prof. Felton of Cornell at the recent training school held in Kingston. The Home Bureau will serve refreshments.

Strivings Advocates Co-operative Buying and Selling.

"Co-operation the Next Step," was the subject of a radio address broadcasted by J. L. Strivings from station WGY, Schenectady, recently.
"Co-operation means today a proper control over the commodity to be marketed," said Mr. Strivings. "Uncontrolled and uninformed production leads to the wildest kind of supply in poverty or excess. The lack of orderly control in the handling of foodstuffs has resulted in painful economic results which have been disastrous not alone to the producer himself but as well to all associated enterprises."

"Shall the way out be marketing
our own products? The chainstore is trade's answer to getting business and enough of it at a small margin to make a business go. By buying for cash spells a chance to which margin."

"The tendency of co-operation is to give service at both ends of the game, viz: The buying and selling.
In our state of New York the farmers have erected the Co-operative G. L. F. Exchange, Inc., for the purpose of effecting savings upon commodities bought in large volume
by the farmer. Two things are done by this association, namely, a saving in price and a quality in material bought. Trade tendencies are toward adulterations, and thus an enlargement of profit."

"The G. L. F. bought and distributed over eight million dollars' worth of farm material in 1923. The Dairymen's League sold for its farmer members over sixty million dollars' worth of milk last year. The Producers' Co-operative Commission association of 965 William street, Bu-falo, during the first year of its existence, sold over eleven million dollars' worth of livestock for its customers at a fine margin of savings.
This association took first place on the Buffalo market before it was six months old and has steadily maintained that place since its organization."

"Larger associations marketing fruit, potatoes, eggs, etc., are developing all over the nation. Apparently co-operation is the next step."

Farm Boys and Girls Find Out Why Dad Belongs

"Why Dad Belongs to the Farm Bureau" is occupying the waking moments of a lot of farm youngsters
throughout the country this month.
The American Farm Bureau Federation has offered a trip to Chicago to the four lucky boys or girls who write the best essays on this subject. One winner will be selected from each of the four geographical sections of the country. In addition county and state prizes are offered.

According to E. V. Underwood, secretary of the New York State Federation, the contest is conducted primarily to interest the growing boys and girls on the farms in the possibilities which lie in the farm bureau organization as a means of farmer self-help. "The boys and girls will find out," said Mr. Underwood, "that Dad belongs to the farm bureau because it serves him and gives him an opportunity to help himself. They will find that he applies to the farm bureau in any perplexity concerning farm management or in any unusual situation which arises. They will probably realize more fully how the union of Dad with a million other farmers has given Dad a voice in legislation, taxation, and marketing of his products which he never had before the advent of the farm bureau."

Ladd Calls Conference of Co-Operative and Extension Workers

Each of the state-wide co-operative organizations of New York has been invited to send a representative to the annual conference of extension workers at the New York State College of Agriculture on Oct. 21. The invitation from Director of Extension, Carl Ladd, states that this conference will take the form of a round table discussion of co-operative marketing associations in New York state for the purpose of bringing before the state extension workers the present situation to each of the associations.
This conference is in line with the college policy of promoting a clear understanding between the co-operative organizations and the state extension system.

Vegetable Growers to Go After New Fair Building

Vegetable growers met at the State Fair in Syracuse on Farm Bureau Day and appointed a committee composed of T. H. Townsend, Clyde Mason, and William Hotelling to work toward securing a new horticultural building. The association voted to invite the Vegetable Growers' association of America to hold its annual convention at Syracuse; State Fair week, in 1926, providing a new horticultural building can be secured. A national exhibit of vegetables will be put up in the new building as part of the dedication ceremonies if the building is secured.

Wonderful Piece of Work

est skull in the world was brought recently to the United States. It took infinite patience and skill at the curiosity. It is complete in every detail and carved from a minute piece of ivory, small enough to fit on the tip of a pencil.—Popular Science Monthly.

First Meeting
of Hi Y Club

Dr. Michael Addresses Hi-Y Club—President Whiston Appoints Committees For Ensuing Year.

The first regular meeting of the Hi-Y club of K. H. S. was held Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C.
A. at the usual hour. There were 37 members present. Raymond Safford said grace after which the girls auxiliary served a splendid meal.

Arthur Pennington led devotion-
als and Paul Coons offered a prayer.
President Whiston gave a short talk in which he stated that "Mr. Hall a booster and former head of Hi-Y club is leaving everything up to the members themselves this year."
Whiston asked that "Each member please cooperate with him in making this year's Hi-Y Club a huge success." Mr. Hall then took the floor for the purpose of telling the club
that the price of 25c for supper would be raised to 30c at next meeting, and would remain at this price.
Mr. Hall also read a letter from Mr.
Perry, a former teacher of the High School and the faculty adviser of the Hi-Y Club.

President Whiston then introduced Dr. Michael as speaker of the evening. Dr. Michael opened by explaining the reason for fire prevention week being concentrated on public schools, instead of upon organizations involving older people.
Mr. Michael said "We can teach a youth to be careful, but we cannot teach the parents." Mr. Michael's subject was "Life's Objectives." This year Mr. Michael is celebrating the 50th anniversary of his graduation from college. All but one of his graduating class will be present at this reunion. Mr. Michael said that "after coming out of an examination, lasting for 6 1/2 hours, he threw himself on the college campus utterly exhausted, and there he decided that his life should be one of service.
There on this campus of his Alma Mater he vowed that he would never knowingly deceive a young person, or knowingly tell a young person an untruth."

President Whiston then appointed the following committees for this year. Entertainment committee, Erwin Crow, William O'Reilly, Elroy
Morris and Harold Du Bois. Speaker committee, Raymond Safford, Paul Coons, Walter Hampton, and Victor
Johnson. Membership committee, Wilbur Tetley, Emerson Davis, Benson Miller, and R. Melik. Physical committee, Fred Clark, Herman Nesslage, Karl Messenger, and Richard Risley.

The meeting was then adjourned.

What Every Man Ought to Know

LOTHES play a big part in every woman's life. A lot of men know this—but don't always know they know it!

Why shouldn't your wife wear
the best of the fascinating fashions that mean so much to her happiness?

If you will stop and think a moment,
you'll realize that the cost of smart apparel for the woman you love is an insignificant item, when compared to the joy it brings to her and the sense of pride it brings to you.

Let her wear the best. We know your heart is in the right place, even if your head sometimes isn't!

The Central Hudson Power System

The linking together of various power stations and distributing lines by the Central Hudson System, was an important step toward the realization of a superpower system for the Valley.

It has brought about a more efficient utilization of existing modern apparatus for standard use and the economic use of older generating equipment for spare or reserve purposes.
These savings are reflected in the rates which remain practically the same in spite of enormous increases in the cost of materials and labor entering into the service.

Meanwhile, the business has grown rapidly. To take care of it, new generating and distributing facilities have been installed and provision made for future requirements. New water powers have been developed and others acquired for the System. A great steel tower transmission line ties in all these power stations with the communities of the Valley and connects at a point on the Mohawk River with large power sources in the Adirondack region and to the North, East and West.

You are invited to invest in this home enterprise which is so closely related to the progress and prosperity of the Central Hudson Region. More than 15,000 local investors have purchased securities of the companies in the Central Hudson System.

Sarg's Puppets
Here Oct. 20

On Monday afternoon, October 20, the children of Kingston and their parents will have the opportunity of seeing Tony Sarg's Marionettes present the Pied Piper of Hamelin and other short novelties at the Kingston High School Auditorium.

The animals are responsible for the entire story, and as the procession of rats becomes a stampede and a riot, the wonder grows that Tony Sarg could have found so many of them in all the world. But they all go where the Pied Piper promised the Burgomaster the pests should go, and if any one happens to see straggler or two clinging precariously to the pier or to a door, have no fear—the Pied Piper is supreme and none escape. The "Pied Piper of Hamelin," with the many colored costume of the Piper and his really fine playing of his music, with the procession of rats and children, and the old Burgomaster, who promised a thousand guilders and wanted to pay only fifty, with the poor little cripples who couldn't walk away even when every other child forgot his home and ran after the Piper. All these, are expected to entertain ever one for forty-five minutes.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius.

The Janitor—How did you come to lose yer job?
Ex-Office Boy—Mine and the boss's grandmother died on the same day.

Harold—Oh, mother, I got one hundred in school today in two subjects.
Fond Parent (kissing him)—Well, well, in what subjects?
Harold—Fifty in reading and fifty in arithmetic.

One of the mysteries of life is that wherever the vacationer goes, the fish are biting better somewhere else.

A man was sitting alone in a smoker as a traveling man entered and the traveling man sizing up the stranger by appearance, said:
"Are you a minister?"
"No," replied the man. "I'm only sick."

"Can't and Cans."

You can't pick locks with a pickle. You can't cure the sick with a sickle. Pluck flies with a figment. Drive pigs with a pigment. Nor make your watch tick with a tickle.

You can't make a mate of your mater. You can't get a crate from a crater. Catch moles with a molar. Bake rolls with a roller. But you can get a wait from a waiter.

The Reason.

Lawyer—And may I ask you why you want a divorce?
Fair Client—Certainly. Because I'm married.

The rest of your days depend upon the rest of your nights.

Her Idea.

Yunno these wild dances, where the guys bug the life outa ya, mighty near? said Claudine of the rapid fire restaurant. Well, whatta ya think of 'em?
Aw, I'm in favor of freedom of the press, to a reasonable extent, replied Heloise, the head waitress.

Not Missing Much.

The radio, we hear, isn't popular in Russia, but who could understand Russia over the radio, anyhow?

Any man could be as wise as Solomon if he has as many wives to give him pointers.

The man who mixes his politics with his religion is pretty sure to have mighty little religion.

A man slipped on a banana peel and executed a very funny fall, not being hurt, as it turned out, but having his dignity somewhat ruffled. When he recovered a moment later a friend was holding his hat and a number of people had formed a circle.

"What do these idlers want?" he snarled.

"They are not idlers," explained his friend, soothingly. "Here's a doctor who wants to look you over, a lawyer ready to bring suit for you, and a producer of comic films who would like to sign you up."

One thing the Bible fails to tell us is whether Deilah had had her own hair bobbed but she certainly acted like it.

CRYSTAL FRINGE.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Fringe again!—It is used in crystals, silver, silk, even chenille, and in many graceful arrangements. The tunic, which is worn over a fringed skirt, or which is finished with fringe, has a host of admirers, largely because there is a theory that fringe makes for slenderness, just as there is a theory, well substantiated by fact, that beaded gowns have a welcome way of making the figure appear more slender.

A good deal of the beading being done just now is in sectional arrangements, rather than in an all-over treatment. There is still the relatively new idea of having the upper and lower part of the evening gown of contrasting material or color, and so this brings about the charming practice of beading one or the other. Not that all such gowns are beaded, for, in a very smart collection of imports, there was a straightline dress of black crepe above the hip line, and a vivid venetian fuchsia beneath.

The combination of black with red-purple is an important one which has nothing funeral in its suggestion nor nothing old, in either sense of the term. It is a new combination, and a youthful one—if the lines of the gown tell a youthful story.

Much beading appears on metal cloth, and metal cloth—but unbeaded—is now worn by day as well as night.

How much there is of purple and mauve and orchid and lavender these days—from the fashionable single orchid planned to one's fur, to the London lavender which is a smart wool color, and the fuchsia shades so lovely in velvets and chiffons. (Copyright, 1924, Fairchild.)

Circuit That Will Enable You to Take Advantage of Selectivity and Anti-Static Properties of the Loop Antenna Without Resorting to Use of Radio Frequency Amplification.

By A. A. KUBIAC

We know that we can reduce the static signal ratio by reducing the size of the antenna. However, below a certain size, the regular form of antenna is not as efficient a collector as the loop antenna. The loop antenna proves to be an improvement over the picture molding antenna because it produces signals equally as strong, while at the same time the static signal ratio is much more favorable.

Ordinarily the use of the loop antenna for distant reception is confined to receivers employing one or more stages of radio frequency amplification. This should not give you the impression that it is not practical to use a loop antenna in connection with the ordinary regenerative type receiver. It is entirely possible with a receiver consisting of loop antenna, regenerative detector and two-step audio frequency amplifier to hear concerts from stations 500 miles distant with sufficient volume to make it enjoyable.

The circuit shown will enable you to take advantage of the selectivity and anti-static properties of the loop antenna without resorting to the use of radio frequency amplification. You will notice that the loop is connected directly across the grid filament circuit without employing any form of coupling coil. Regenerative amplification is obtained by tuning the plate circuit to resonance with the grid circuit by employing a variometer as shown. This form of regeneration control is preferred in place of the tickler feed back method when using a loop antenna directly in the grid filament circuit.

The above circuit shows a two-step audio frequency amplifier to build up the signal strength, as it is not advisable to attempt reception on loop with a detector only. Now it must be remembered that what we are after is not a means of getting the greatest possible volume of sound in the phones from a given signal, but a means of getting good clear reception, free from interfering noises. The loop antenna affords the best means of accomplishing this without the use of any special form of apparatus.

The loop antenna, however, is far from being perfect in this respect and permits considerable static to pass into the detector, but being the best we have in the line of ordinary apparatus, we will have to be content with separating the rest of the static from the signal after it has been detected. The resistances shown across the secondaries of the amplifying transformers are ordinary 1/2 megohm resistances, commonly used as grid leaks. The introduction of these resistances into the circuit as shown reduces the signal strength somewhat, but helps greatly in eliminating tube noises and the still existing static interference.—New York Sun.

GOOD YEAR

Increasing Efficiency of Antenna Insulator

No matter how efficient an insulator is in dry weather its efficiency will always materially decrease during rain or snow. This is particularly the case of the common ball type insulator. For a number of years a correspondent has been using a scheme to protect the insulator on his antenna which has proved extremely efficient. This simply consists of covering the Tin Can Serves as Protector for Outdoor Aerial Insulators.

Insulator with a tin can as shown in the illustration. This can should be of such size that there is at least three-quarters of an inch clearance on either side of the insulator, and it should be placed so that the opening is at the lower end. A hole is bored through one end of the tin can large enough to pass the insulator eye through and this hole should afterward be entirely closed with solder. The can should also be painted inside and out to prevent rust and corrosion. This type of covering will keep the insulator fairly dry in the most severe weather and those weak signals will still be picked up during heavy rain storms.—Radio News.

Crystal Detector That Requires No Adjustment.

A dependable crystal detector requiring no adjustment can be assembled from the following materials: Two upholstery or thumb tacks, two binding posts, two pieces of bakelite or other good insulating material, a length of hard drawn copper wire for clips and a small piece of crystal. Any good crystal will do, but perhaps best results will be obtained if the crystal is of the synthetic "all-sensitive" variety.

One piece of bakelite should be at least 1 1/4 inches long and about 1/2 of an inch square. This piece is drilled lengthwise through the center with a small drill of a size to snugly accommodate the two thumb tacks. One tack is inserted in this hole to within about 3-16 of an inch of the center. The crystal should now be pounded to fine grains and 1/8 of an inch of them poured into the hole from the opposite end. The second tack should now be inserted in this end so that the crystal grains make contact between the points of both tacks. A mounting for this crystal detector may easily be made from the copper wire and may take the form shown in the diagram. This type of detector will prove both sensitive and stable and may be used successfully in a reflex circuit.—Radio News.

Hints About Soldering of Radio Connections

Three things must especially be remembered while soldering. It is always important to have the surface or surfaces to be soldered perfectly clean. Emery cloth or a fine file may be used in some cases. Unclean surfaces do not permit the solder to flow freely.

The second point to bear in mind is to tin the surfaces properly. This is done by first applying a soldering flux, such as resin, acid or paste, to the surfaces, and then the well-tinned iron is run over them. This will leave a thin coating of solder on the surfaces, thus making them ready for the connection.

The final operation should not be attempted unless the soldering copper is of the proper heat. It should never be heated above the point where the solder begins to turn gray. To tin the iron, dip the end in the soldering flux and rub a piece of solder on the surface. A thin coat of solder will remain on the soldering tip.

When soldering, the iron is placed on the surfaces to be joined together. When the solder has melted around the parts being soldered, the iron is removed and the solder will quickly set. Care should be taken not to jar the pieces while the solder is setting and also to allow only a minimum amount of solder to flow; thus preventing an unsightly joint.

Proper Care of Storage Battery Is Important

Proper care of the battery will double the useful reception of the set. Always remove the acid or water from the top of the battery, as the moisture will sometimes cause unnecessary noises. Never place the battery near window curtains, as the fumes will ruin them. Do not set the battery on or next a rug, as the acid might leak and ruin it. If battery is in good condition it will not freeze. The care of the radio battery is more important in the summer time than in the winter, because many people are not inclined to use their sets in summer. If the battery is not used for a long time and is left in a discharged condition, sulphation will result. This condition can sometimes be remedied by a prolonged charge. Many times it is necessary to dismantle and repair.

Right Size for Grid Condenser

For use with a vacuum tube, a .00025 mfd. mica fixed condenser will be found to be correct. With a larger condenser connected in the grid circuit, the circuits will be found to be unstable, especially with the ordinary form of regenerative sets. Too small a condenser will give weak signals.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ROGUE'S BEST CLOTHES

Rogue was a very small white dog. He had shaggy white hair and he was as cunning as a cat.

She Gave Rogue a Bath.

Now Rogue heard that a great friend of his had come to town, and that she was down at the white house at the foot of the street where he lived.

She was a little girl, and her name was Isabel, and Rogue's mistress said:

"Rogue, we will go and call on Isabel, but first of all you must dress up in your best clothes. We will not go until after-noon."

You may be surprised to hear that Rogue was going to dress up in his best clothes, and you may wonder what his best clothes were.

You may think that perhaps he had a trunk with several suits in it which he wore at different times. But if you think this, you're wrong!

Rogue's best clothes were different. When his mistress spoke of his wearing his best clothes she meant he would have a bath.

Then he would look so fluffy and white and pretty.

Oh, yes, then he would be wearing his best clothes.

So she gave Rogue a bath and scrubbed him with soap and water and dried him carefully with a towel.

Then she and Rogue sat out in the sunshine together and he became nice and dry and warm.

His coat looked so fluffy and pretty, and he had a final brushing before he set out to make his call.

But when they got to the house they found Isabel had gone out for a little while.

She did not know Rogue was coming to call on her.

When she got back and heard that Rogue had been to see her and that his mistress had left word and had said:

"Tell Isabel that Rogue came to call on her, as he wanted especially to see her," she was much disappointed.

"I think I will run right up and see Rogue," she said.

Now Rogue was back at home and he was feeling quite sad. He did not want to play very hard, as he was afraid he would get his best clothes dirty.

He wanted to see Isabel first, and then he could get as dirty as he pleased. But he wanted her to see how he had dressed up for her.

He would be very careful until the next day when they would go to call on her again.

But as he was sitting, wondering how he could keep clean so long he heard Isabel's voice, and then his mistress shouted:

"Rogue, Rogue, come here! Isabel has come to return your call."

Well, Rogue was delighted. With a bound he had rushed to the front of his house where Isabel and his mistress were talking.

Then they all came around to the back of the house and sat on the lawn and talked.

Rogue was petted by Isabel and he showed her how much he loved her and how glad he was to see her.

"And how pretty you look!" Isabel said.

"He's all dressed up in his best clothes in your honor," his mistress said.

"He dressed up to go and call on you."

Isabel was very much pleased and flattered, and she gave Rogue a kiss on the top of his soft little fluffy head and said:

"You look too dear for words, Rogue."

Now as long as words were not to be used Rogue did not bark.

But instead he wagged his little tail, and was just as happy as he could be.

And he was thankful, too, that he didn't have to be so careful about keeping spotlessly clean until the next day now!

He was thankful about that, for it was hard for an active little dog to keep his best clothes looking just so for too many hours!

DELIGHTFUL PRESERVES

Peaches, plums, apricots pears and fruit of similar kinds make most luscious preserves. Mold will attack the best made preserves; this may be prevented by processing the finished jars after they are all sealed by placing them in a water bath that is just under the boiling point, for fifteen minutes. Do not let the water boil.

Plenty of sirup is the important rule in preserving. The best way is to put the fruit to cook in a thin sirup and by evaporation and cooking reduce it to the density of honey in the finished product.

Rapid cooking is best; the long, slow simmering process which used to be considered the only way is not now regarded as advisable. The more quickly the fruit is cooked, the clearer, brighter and richer the color will be; also more important still the delicate flavor is preserved.

Three-quarters of a pound of sugar to a pound of fruit, with a pint and a quarter of water to each pound of sugar will be ample for all of the large fruits.

Drop the fruit into the boiling sirup and cook it until clear but unbroken. It will be well cooked by the time the sirup has become thick. Now arrange the fruits in enameled pans and if the sirup does not seem quite thick enough, boil it until it is honey-like in consistency. Now pour the hot sirup over the fruit and let it stand to cool. Place the pans in cold water or where they will cool most quickly. Let the fruit stand overnight or until perfectly cold, then pack in sterilized jars. Boil up the sirup and pour over and seal. By following this method small fruits will never float on top of the sirup. For small fruit cover the saucpan while cooking for a few moments; this helps to plump the fruit.

If one desires to crystallize fruit: (remove from the sirup, draining well on a sieve, then place on plates in the bright sunshine or in a warm oven. Sprinkle the fruit occasionally with granulated sugar and when the fruit is coated with the sugar and exudes no more moisture, roll in sugar and pack in waxed paper in boxes. Keep from all dampness.

Drop the fruit into the boiling sirup and cook it until clear but unbroken. It will be well cooked by the time the sirup has become thick. Now arrange the fruits in enameled pans and if the sirup does not seem quite thick enough, boil it until it is honey-like in consistency. Now pour the hot sirup over the fruit and let it stand to cool. Place the pans in cold water or where they will cool most quickly. Let the fruit stand overnight or until perfectly cold, then pack in sterilized jars. Boil up the sirup and pour over and seal. By following this method small fruits will never float on top of the sirup. For small fruit cover the saucpan while cooking for a few moments; this helps to plump the fruit.

If one desires to crystallize fruit: (remove from the sirup, draining well on a sieve, then place on plates in the bright sunshine or in a warm oven. Sprinkle the fruit occasionally with granulated sugar and when the fruit is coated with the sugar and exudes no more moisture, roll in sugar and pack in waxed paper in boxes. Keep from all dampness.

"Dowdy" Hartnett Is Star

The photograph shows "Dowdy" Hartnett, star catcher for the Chicago Cubs, who attributes his baseball rise to the persistency and determination of his father, himself an old catcher. Dad Hartnett finally persuaded Manager Jack Mack of Worcester to give the kid a trial and he made good right from the jump.

"Dazzy" Vance Gave Himself His Nickname
 Vance gave himself his baseball nickname. "Dazzy" sounds as if it refers to his blading fast ball, but it doesn't. It means his "change," his slow ball.
 When he was with New Orleans somebody asked him what he had.
 "A fast ball and a dazzy," was the reply. Finally he wrote it down, and it leaked out that "dazzy" was his idea of the way to pronounce "daisy."
 So he became "Dazzy" then, and is "Dazzy" today. Today it's the National league batters who are "dazy."

Good Left Is Essential in Various Kinds of Sport

Many handball players are handicapped by a weak left. Tennis players often fall because the lack a good backhand. Ball players frequently fall down because they are weak going to the right or to the left. Many boxers have failed to advance because their left was almost useless.

To these we recommend the case of William Harrison Dempsey as an example. When Dempsey began boxing he had a weak left hand. He decided he could never advance in his profession unless he carried a good left, so Dempsey tied his right hand to his side and sparred, using only the left. He did this for months and the result was that Dempsey developed one of the greatest lefts in ring history. The left played the biggest part in his ring success. It is not difficult to overcome weaknesses in sport, but it does require a vast amount of time, patience, perseverance. It calls for a "grind" that few care for and that explains why more do not succeed.

Bleacher Fan Thing of Past in Various Cities

These are silk stocking days in baseball. Not many years back the average fan would grab his hat, run for the street car, get to the ball yard just in time to hear "play ball," and enjoy a rare afternoon with the other sun gods in the bleachers.

Now he steps into his automobile, motors leisurely to a palatial ball plant, and purchases a seat in the grandstand. The bleachers are almost forgotten. This is true of cities wherever professional baseball flourishes, from New York to the Main-street towns of the Dakotas. The average American demands the best, and if he has the price is willing to pay for it.

This is true not only of baseball but of almost everything which the public supports from the movies to railroads. Once it was thought the height of extravagance to buy a pullman; in fact, most people thought it a fine treat to ride on the red plush of the day coaches. Nowadays one is often lucky to get a parlor car chair, even when a train is running light. And so it goes through the whole run of travel, amusement and sports.

In the season of 1890 the Pittsburgh team set up a National league record by losing 23 consecutive games.

Catcher Grover Hartley of the Columbus American association club has been sold to the New York Giants.

Pug Hallahan, who has been pitching wonderful ball for Kalamazoo, has been recalled by the St. Louis Cardinals.

The American Soccer league is to have a circuit of 12 clubs this season, the largest since its organization four years ago.

Harry Wills, it is said, owes much of his skill in boxing to lessons learned in his bouts with the veteran, Sam Langford.

Pittsburgh has signed Gear Bailey, a big right-hand pitcher, who has been doing fine work for a Cleveland semi-pro team.

Williams, former Southern leaguer, reported to Manager Fohl of Boston and was started as lead-off man for the Red Sox.

Memphis has purchased Pitcher Moss, a right-hander, from Laurel of the Cotton States league. He will report in the spring.

Leon Cadore, pitcher with the Giants until suspended and released a short time ago, is with the Glendales, a New York semi-pro team.

Business Manager Howard Lorens of Vernon has confirmed the report of the purchase of Charles Fulton of Augusta, leading pitcher of the Sally league.

Speakers Urge Women to Vote

Ulster Has Lowest Percentage of Women Voters of Any County in State—Republican and Democratic Speakers Address Girls at Y. W. C. A.

There was a splendid attendance at the Wednesday night supper at the Y. W. C. A., when an excellent menu was served, songs were sung, speeches were listened to and Miss Capen from the State Y. W. was given a rousing welcome. There were several guests from New Paltz, the women having come to the supper for the express purpose of hearing the political speakers. They seemed greatly impressed with the fine spirit of the affair and the genial hospitality extended by members of the board of directors including the president, Mrs. Rice and by the girls.

At the close of the supper, Mrs. Rice announced that Dr. Mary Gage-Day, representative of the Republican County Committee, would introduce the speakers.

The first speaker was the Republican representative, Mrs. Henry F. Burton, who in addition to being a political speaker lectures on current topics and is a state deputy motion picture commissioner. She emphasized a point stated by Dr. Day, to the effect that at the last election only 10 per cent of the women voters of this county voted, the lowest percentage of any county in the state. While some of the girls present might not be old enough to vote this year, Mrs. Burton urged upon them to try and get other women to register and vote, who but for their efforts might remain at home.

Mrs. Burton devoted most of her time to sketches of Colonel Roosevelt, Republican candidate for governor and to President Calvin Coolidge. She considered the platforms of the Republican and Democratic parties to be quite similar. Then she gave at some length President Coolidge's "Creed." This speaker felt that the salvation of the country depended upon the individual backing of the leaders of the country, and urged insistently that every girl and woman present vote for whichever party she favored, but vote so that this country might be free from "Gangsterism, from bigotry, free for all."

The Democratic representative was Mrs. Edwin Schoonmaker of Woodstock. While she made it plain to the girls that Democrats and Republicans can be and are the best of friends, she considered that the platforms of the two leading parties were decidedly different regarding the "plan" of foreign relations. Mrs. Schoonmaker was deeply interested in the subject of foreign relations, which she had visited Europe to investigate. She considered Woodrow Wilson one of the greatest if not the greatest of presidents, in the light of future history. Much of her talk was devoted to the subject of the League of Nations, as a Democratic movement of vital importance, by means of which world peace would be secured. The Democratic party pledges itself to bring the United States into the League of Nations. Mrs. Schoonmaker also spoke against a high protective tariff as defeating the plan of resumption of world commerce which would make it much harder for the nations of Europe to pay their debts to us. Finally she called attention to the scandal in high places of the last administration, and urged voting against the Republican party as the most effective means of punishing that party for such behavior and also considered such punishment desirable to make sure that the Democratic party might not be tempted when given the opportunity.

Mrs. Schoonmaker, like Mrs. Burton, urged all present to be sure to register and vote and to get other women to do likewise. She then suggested that her predecessor be given the opportunity to answer any points made by her.

The girls applauded loudly when Mrs. Burton said that she did not consider that a debate was in order, but would say in answer to the tariff statement, that under Republican protective tariff there is practically no unemployment, while during the last Democratic administration our unemployed were counted by the millions.

Before the close of the evening, Dr. Day extended to those present an invitation to accompany the women of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs to the St. James M. E. Church on Sunday evening to hear the pastor, the Rev. J. Wilbur Tetley, speak on "The Duty of Citizenship."

The speaker for next Wednesday will be announced later.

VIRGINIA DAY felt the necessity for helping with the earnings of the family income.

"But, my dear," said her mother as they discussed the subject for the 20th time, "you help so much at home. Practically all of the housekeeping falls on your shoulders."

Virginia tossed credit aside. "It is nothing. I can continue to help you and still earn a penny to add to the family exchequer."

"If it would make you happier—" "It isn't that, dear mother. I am happy. But everyone is more nearly satisfied with himself if he is earning his own salt. Isn't it so?"

"It seems to be in this generation," admitted the mother.

"It is so. And when I see women with two or three little children and all their household to do, pursuing some sort of lucrative work, I am ashamed of my laziness." Virginia had evidently been giving the matter of her own efficiency some serious thought and her mother could not help admiring her lovely daughter.

"Have you decided on anything in particular? What can you do?" "Sell tulips!" announced Virginia simply.

"But—" She cut her mother's protest short. "I know I don't own a single bulb nor a square inch of ground, but I have a scheme."

"Seems to me you'll need one, daughter," said the mother.

"You remember the other day when I went with Julia to a tea place out on Long Island? Well, that is where my scheme was born. And yesterday I went out on the train to see if it were a real inspiration that I had had—and it was. We had passed, in driving, the loveliest field of tulips I had ever beheld. Then and there something told me that opportunity was whispering in my ear. I had read somewhere or other that to be efficient in life we must learn to capture these winged moments and make use of them. I recognized this as a golden chance, and I believe it was."

The mother looked at her daughter with widening eyes. Was this her little girl speaking with so much understanding of life?

"It seems that the man who owns the tulip field had started in haphazard fashion a bulb farm, but had not had the proper business methods for getting his goods into the market. I saw at once a whole plan and I outlined it to him. He was delighted, poor soul. He is artistic, but he is not so practical. We decided to put the tulips all in divisions of color for next spring, hundreds of each variety with the beginning that he already has planted so irregularly. My job all winter will be to get orders from hotels and tea rooms in the city for certain color schemes for certain days. For instance, I will sell a big hotel scarlet tulips for Monday and Tuesday, yellow for the following two days, and so forth, and eliminate the profit of the middleman or florist. I myself will deliver them in our old station wagon, and when I get too busy we will hire a truck. Do you see? It will be practically no expense to me and we are to divide profits. He is willing—even enthusiastic."

Virginia went on planning and carrying out her scheme and went so far as to suggest to one tea room owner on Fifth avenue that a rainbow afternoon tea feature would be attractive. She planned for them a series of tables decorated entirely in single colors from the tea cloth and china service to the tulips in the center—each one different. Her idea was to have a real rainbow effect as you entered the long room, carried out in colored tables.

"Moth, I am so wrapped up in our scheme and so enthusiastic that I am probably a bore to you at home. Am I not?"

"On the contrary, dear, you are a marvel to me," said her mother.

"Does Mr. Harrow have a family?" asked the mother, quite naturally.

Virginia blushed as her mother had never seen her blush before. And in her confusion she was lovely.

"No—he has never been married. He's a sort of an artist who lives in this little bungalow and had started the tulip farm to keep the pot boiling, so to speak," explained Virginia.

"Oh," said her mother.

Virginia became more and more certain that the moment that she had laid eyes upon the field of tulips had been one of the golden opportunities of her life. The idea was materializing and with it was growing a very wonderful romance.

"You know I just felt that fate was guiding me that day when I came to make the business proposition to you about the tulips," she said one evening when she had been having dinner with her partner.

"And has it been a kind fate?" he asked.

"It has, Frank. You know it has. We shall build the new bungalow at the crest of the hill and its windows shall look out upon the riotous field of color in spring. Other seasons will take care of themselves."

"Might we call it Tulip hill, dear?" he asked.

"We might—it's a pretty name. But we won't tell them what wonders there are at the top of the hill. Only you and I shall know that," said Virginia.

Populous Ants' Nests

Lord Avebury once estimated that a single ant nest might contain as many as 400,000 individual insects. Recent researches have shown that these figures were too high; yet the actual facts are astonishing enough.

Year's Program of Home Bureau

Ulster County Home Bureau Announces Program for the Year—Classes in Nutrition and Clothing Will Be Continued.

Homemakers throughout Ulster county and Kingston will find many things which will help them with their problems of homemaking in the program of the Ulster County Home Bureau. The bureau announces that they have divided their work into the following headings:

Nutrition—The first and second year work will be repeated to any community not having had the work. The third year work will consist of the studying of food preparation. This is a natural sequence of the first and second year when they studied the kinds of food the body needs, where to find them and how to prevent digestive difficulties. There will also be some lectures on what kind of refreshments to serve at afternoon and evening gatherings. Clothing—Under the head of clothing they are studying first of all, millinery—making and choosing hats. This work has already begun and is finding great favor throughout the county. The women are making their own frames as well as their own trimmings.

Lectures will be given on proper corseting and correct shoes for health and the harmony between shoes and custom. Lectures on the use of color in dress and on design in dress will also be given.

There will be a course of household management, taking up the management of the house, especially the kitchen.

There will be a course on house furnishing and decoration and on landscape gardening.

Some of the communities have taken up civics very successfully and will continue with it this year.

Clubs for girls in food work will be continued.

"Mother Goose"

It is not known for certain that Mother Goose was a real character. It is supposed that possibly the name is derived from Queen Goosefoot, or Berthe au Grand Pied, mother of Charlemagne. The queen was a special patron for children.

Ulster Classis In Fall Session

Several Changes in Reformed Dutch Churches—To Install Pastor At Katsbaan—Change in Time of Spring Meeting.

The stated October session of Ulster Classis was held on Tuesday last in the Katsbaan Church. Twenty-three churches were represented. There were 15 ministers and 20 elders present as delegates from these churches. A number of other laymen and ministers were in attendance. The Rev. G. W. Gulick retired from the presidency and was succeeded by the Rev. L. M. Bramm, of the Accord church. The Rev. Homer L. Sheffer became temporary clerk.

The classis voted to amend their rules so that the spring session will hereafter be held on the third Tuesday in April instead of on the second. The call extended recently by the Katsbaan Reformed Church to the Rev. Robert J. Van Deusen to become pastor was read and approved. The Rev. Mr. Van Deusen, who has been the stated supply for this field as well as for the West Camp Lutheran field, presented a letter of dismission from the Lutheran Synod of New York to the Classis of Ulster, and was enrolled as a member of this Classis by his signature to the formula. Mr. Van Deusen has accepted this call, and arrangements were made for his installation. This service is to be held in the Katsbaan Church on the evening of November 7, next, at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. W. F. Stowe is to preach the sermon; the Rev. J. B. Steketee is to give the charge to the pastor-elect; and the charge to the people is to be made by the Rev. A. V. S. Wallace.

An item of interest was the payment by the Shandaken church of Mt. Tremper of the balance of their indebtedness to the Classis. Another was the donation to the Krumville church of the gross proceeds of the sale of the Dashville Falls church property, to assist the Krumville people in the payment of their parsonage. The amendment to the church constitution was approved.

The Rev. J. V. Wemple was delegated to convey the greetings and well wishes of the Classis to the Rev. Dr. F. B. Seeley, whose illness prevented his attendance at Classis. The Rev. T. S. Brathwaite led Classis in prayer for the restoration of Dr. Seeley to his ministry.

Dr. Willard Dayton Brown of the Reformed Board of Education, addressed Classis as a representative of the church's wider activities and outlined the more aggressive policy of the Reformed Church.

At the hour of the devotional service the retiring president, the Rev. G. W. Gulick, preached on "God's Program," from Isaiah, 2:2-5:7 and gave a splendid synopsis of that passage, showing the setting up of true religion, God's scathing denunciation of unrighteousness, the protection God affords, and the establishments of the church. The local congregation was well represented in the audience.

The Classis was entertained at dinner in the church hall by the Ladies' Society of the church, in a manner that left nothing to be wished for. The Rev. Mr. Boey made fitting recognition for the brethren and after which the men gave a rising vote of thanks to the Consistory and the ladies of the church.

Classis adjourned at 5:00, to meet April 21, 1925 in the Saugerties Reformed Church.

BALL PLAYER DEAD.

Jake Daubert, Captain and First Baseman of Reds, Died Today.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Weakened by a double operation, Jake Daubert, captain and veteran first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, died early today.

Blood transfusions, attempted yesterday as a last desperate effort to save the ball player, were futile.

Daubert, who was 39 years old, was extremely popular with the fans. He had been on the team six seasons, starting the year Cincinnati won a world championship largely by Daubert's heavy hitting and clever work at first base.

Mrs. Daubert was with him when he died at Good Samaritan Hospital. His home was Schuylkill Haven, Penna. Funeral arrangements have not been completed. A son, George, is a freshman at Pennsylvania State College.

Daubert was struck on the head by a ball pitched by Allen Sothern at St. Louis last May. Last week he was operated upon for appendicitis and gall bladder trouble.

MONUMENT TO FIRST PREACHER

Towns of Black Hills Honor "Preacher Smith."

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Elaborate exercises marked the dedication of a monument to Rev. Henry Weston Smith, known as "Preacher" Smith, who was the first "sky pilot" to enter the Black Hills after the discovery of gold. The monument, which was erected with funds contributed by the people of the different cities and towns in the Black Hills, stands near the exact spot, three miles from Deadwood, where "Preacher" Smith was killed by Indians on August 20, 1876.

At the time of being killed he was on his way from Deadwood to Crook City, a town of the district, to preach. It was a curious coincidence that "Preacher" Smith and "Wild Bill" Hickok—men representing the two extremes of society—should die violent deaths in the same month. "Wild Bill" having been assassinated by John McCall on August 2, 1876, while seated with other men in a Deadwood saloon playing cards.

"Preacher" Smith lived in a log cabin in Deadwood, and before departing for his ill-fated trip to Crook City he had written the following words on a card, which he fastened to his cabin door: "Gone to Crook City to preach, and if God is willing, will be back at three o'clock."

Killed by Indians.

He never returned alive, for at about 10 o'clock that morning he was killed by Sioux Indians on the top of what was known as Big Hill, over which the crude road to Crook City wound its way. Information of the killing of the "sky pilot" created intense excitement among the rough-and-ready element then making up the population of the young Deadwood, which at the time was termed the wildest mining camp in the world.

A posse was quickly formed by heavily armed men, who started out to punish the Indians. Members of the posse had several skirmishes with the Sioux raiders that same afternoon, killing several of them, but themselves losing five of their men. When members of the posse made their way back to Deadwood, where the body of the slain "sky pilot" had been taken, they found "Calamity Jane," a noted frontier woman, and "Kitty" Arnold, a familiar character in Deadwood in the early days, laying out the body of the dead clergyman in his cabin for burial. "Calamity Jane" said, with tears streaming down her face:

"Isn't it too bad that the only man who came here to tell us how to live had to be killed by the Indians?"

Preached in Saloon.

On one occasion "Preacher" Smith, on invitation of the proprietor, held religious services in the saloon and gambling den of "Nutsell Bill," an early Deadwood character. "Nutsell Bill" had shoved back his tables for the occasion. All was orderly and quiet during the time "Preacher" Smith was preaching his sermon to the assembled roughs and others, who contributed liberally to him in cash at the conclusion of his remarks.

Some men entering the Black Hills had permitted "Preacher" Smith to accompany them, and one evening one of them found him reading a Bible. Then the stranger informed the men that he was a Methodist minister. He was told that he was up against a hard proposition, to which he replied: "Possibly so, but I will do the best I can." His only baggage when he entered the Black Hills was a small valise. He was a man about six feet tall and of fine physique. His age at the time he reached Deadwood was about forty. He came West from the New England states to preach the gospel among the rough men of that day.

Mr. Butterfly Likes Booze, but Wife Sticks to Water.

London, England.—That male butterflies like to get drunk while female ones shun liquor and are perfectly content with water as a beverage is the discovery of Zoologist Sutt after experiments along these lines. He kept all sorts of butterflies in his wire-screened garden and exposed several bowls, containing either pure water or whiskey of different brands. The male butterflies invariably took to the liquor bowls and sipped so long that they fell off the brim and rolled on the ground.

The female butterflies, however, heaved, and without exception shunned the alcohol.

Should Be Tender

Excelsior Springs, Mo.—Dan Rhodus, a farmer near here, has kept a ham 47 years. It is one his father, Bascomb Rhodus, put away in ashes in 1877. Rhodus says it is his intention to invite a few of his old friends to take dinner with him in 1927, on which occasion the ham will be served and its fiftieth anniversary appropriately celebrated.

Find Money Buried in '63

Selma, Ky.—While working in a field a few days ago, two young men living in the Ortiz country found $23.05 in silver coins that had evidently been buried many years. There were 42 silver half-dollars, several nickels, dimes and quarters. The pieces bore dates of from 1842 to 1861. The money was evidently buried during the war between the States.

World Peace Greatly Aided By Two Moves Made By The Administration

HARDING CONFERENCE FOR THE LIMITATION OF ARMAMENTS AND DAWES PLAN REGARDED AS OF THE HIGHEST IMPORTANCE

This is the fourth of a series of five articles by Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee, and chairman of the Women's Division of that committee. Mrs. Hert discusses what she considers vital campaign issues from the woman's standpoint.

BY MRS. ALVIN T. HERT

of all thinking people a hatred of war.

The United States has, I believe, led the way to lasting peace. The Arms Conference at Washington and the Allied-German acceptance of the Dawes plan are the two most important steps taken in the last four years. They represent the practical accomplishments of the present Republican administration in Washington bringing about a settlement of international differences, while at the same time protecting the rights of the United States and her citizens.

The women of this country know that General Charles G. Dawes, who has been nominated by the Republican party for Vice-president, headed the commission which presented the Dawes Reparation Plan. This man had the vision and the ability to get at the economic facts underlying the situation and to present a plan for clean-cut co-operation and good will which has won the approbation of sound economists everywhere.

The Republican party believes in common sense in the conduct of America's international relations. Its sincere efforts to insure peace were cited by President Coolidge in his speech accepting the Republican nomination for the Presidency, when he said, "It is so easy to forget, but the impression which the condition of our country in March, 1921 made upon the people was so deep, so vivid, so alarming that it will not soon pass away. Over two years after the armistice we were still technically in a state of war. We had no diplomatic relations with Turkey, Greece, Russia, Colombia, or Mexico and the Far East was causing grave apprehensions."

How the Republican party straightened out this chaotic condition of affairs was further noted by the President: "Perhaps in no peace time period have there been more remarkable and constructive accomplishments than since March, 1921. We have ratified separate treaties of world wide importance with Germany, Austria, Hungary, Colombia and Mexico. Forty-two other treaties have been approved by the Senate and six treaties are now awaiting its action. "We have established our rights and insured peace in the Far East and the Pacific Ocean. Our foreign relations have been handled with a technical skill and a broad statesmanship which have seldom, if ever, been surpassed."

These steps toward world peace are actual accomplishments. The promises of the Republican party to continue its efforts in this direction were clearly stated in the platform adopted at Cleveland. The platform reaffirmed the party's stand for agreement among the nations to prevent war and preserve peace. It declared:

"As an important step in this direction we endorse the permanent Court of International Justice and favor the adherence of the United States to this tribunal as recommended by President Coolidge. This government has definitely refused membership in the League of Nations and to assume any obligations under the government of the League. On this we stand."

Women know and understand the efforts that are being made to prolong the peace of this country and the practical means that are employed for that purpose. They know that President Coolidge and General Dawes will see to it that America's honor is preserved and that America's influence is thrown on the side of peace and good will to men."

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS' CARD PARTY A SUCCESS

The popularity of the card parties given by the Catholic Daughters of America was again manifest Tuesday evening, when at the K. of C. hall on Broadway was filled to capacity by the daughters and their friends. Euchre, pinocle and five hundred were played.

During the games the Imperial Orchestra rendered several selections and afterward dancing was enjoyed. The party was a great success both socially and financially.

The committee in charge wish to thank N. D. J. Murphy and Stock & Joseph's Church for loan of card tables, also those who contributed prizes, and the workers on different committees for their share in making this a most successful affair.

World Series At the Y. M. C. A.

Crowds Get Good Reports of Games—Interesting Programs Being Arranged for Men and Boys for Fall and Winter.

The Y. M. C. A. has been rendering good service in giving a detailed report of the World Series. Judging the daily attendance, the largest crowd gathered anywhere in the city to be found watching the Y score card. This year all the ball news regarding the series has been received by the radio and with excellent results. Wilson Ingalls is a baseball fan and knows the game. He has been the operator and as soon as he receives the message of each play he tells it to the score marker. The large roll of paper has been displayed in a plain sight at one time. This helps to make watching of the returns interesting.

Many people in thinking of the Y. M. C. A. think of the building instead of the organization. The best of both is needed in order to do a great work. The organization is one of service and is composed of all classes of young men and boys of the community. Generally speaking, the business and professional men form the backbone of the organization. Without them the work could not proceed. More men are realizing each year that the "Y" warrants a membership in order to do the best work. Many men join the "Y" for what they can personally get out of it, but because of the fact they know it means much to Kingston and the community. The organization is always bigger than the building. The business men of Kingston who become members, strengthen the association and permit it to do a greater work.

The physical department under the direction of Mr. Buley is getting all under way and everything is going in a business-like way with the classes increasing daily. The noon business men's class which meets Mondays and Fridays, has created much interest. Many men have found it easier to keep well than to get well. The classes on Tuesdays and Thursdays meet at 5 p. m. Those who are anxious to keep in form are requested to enter either the morning or evening class. The bowling alleys are kept busy and under the direction of Arthur Rice the evening program brings out much competition and get good results.

DAIRY

PURE BRED SIRE IS QUITE IMPORTANT

Most of us know that the bull is more than half the herd and most of us appreciate the fact that only a pure bred bull should be used at the head of the herd, but often we fail to consider the fact that pure bred bulls may be classed into good sires and scrub sires. Just because a bull is pure bred is no reason why he is perfectly suitable for use in any herd. The bull used must be absolutely the best individual in the herd; he must be a little better-bred animal and a little better individual than any of the cows, otherwise how can improvement be made?

The pure bred breeders will do well to only offer good, straight bulls for sale and the man who is building up a good grade herd cannot expect to do it with a poor individual at its head. Avoid the sale of or selection of bulls that are badly off type—bulls that are sloping on the rump, cut in at the heart, low in the back or plain in the head. Select good individuals and, further, select a better bred bull than any of the cows. Bulls with production records back of them are the best bets for improving the quality of the herd.

The pure bred breeder will do well to pay particular attention to the selection of the sire, securing an animal that is bred along the same lines as his cows, in order to intensify one line of breeding and secure additional production in a shorter period of time. No single factor in herd improvement is more important than the selection of the sire.—H. R. Lascelles, Field Man, Colorado State Dairy Commission.

Feed Dairy Calf Grain in Addition to Pasture

Dairy heifers under a year old should get some grain in addition to pasture, and calves less than six months old should have both skim milk and grain along with pasture to get best results. A good many dairy heifers are slow to develop into milk producers, because they are neglected during the summer months and left to make all of their growth on pasture alone.

C. S. Rhode of the University of Illinois recommends 20 parts of ground corn, 30 parts of ground oats, 30 parts of wheat bran and 10 parts of oil meal to make a good grain mixture for calves. A good quality legume hay, such as clover or alfalfa, makes a fine roughage for growing animals, since it contains a rather large amount of protein and lime for bone-building. Many dairymen find it worth while to have cool, dark quarters during the hot summer, where calves can be protected from the heat and flies.

Good Cure for Abnormal Appetite Being Tested

Experiments now being carried on by the university department of agriculture indicate that steamed bone-meal fed in the ration will relieve, if not cure, the disorders known as abnormal appetite among dairy cattle.

Six cattle owners in a western Minnesota county where depraved appetite has been common among farm animals have been co-operating with the Minnesota university since early last winter in feeding steamed bone-meal to the 119 cows in their herds. As a result, last winter was the first that the cattle had not chewed bones and boards. All the cows came through in good physical condition, and the calves born in the six herds are strong and vigorous.

The results have been checked up and reported by a university representative and the county agent. All the herds are located on prairie soil typical of the region under investigation by the dairymen and chemists of the university.—Minnesota Extension Service News.

Dairy Hints

Ship cream in five-gallon cans.

Clean the cans before each milking.

After the cream is separated, cool immediately.

Wash dairy utensils with alkali powder. Do not use soap.

Strain the milk through a cheesecloth or cotton strainer.

Do not turn cows on pastures with no shade trees during the middle of the day.

The farmer selling whole milk cannot afford to raise calves entirely on whole milk.

Don't sacrifice a fall calf from a choice dairy cow. Give it good care and it will be ready to go to pasture in the spring not far behind the earlier calves in growth.

Those who use milking machines will avoid trouble if they thoroughly sterilize the machines with steam or boiling water, taking particular care to see that the tubes are clean.

Gossards offer what you most desire of corsetry

Style

Styles change from year to year. But certain women are always smart-looking and well poised no matter what the season's silhouette, because they wear corsets and brassieres which keep the figure youthful without imposing stiffness and restriction.

Freedom

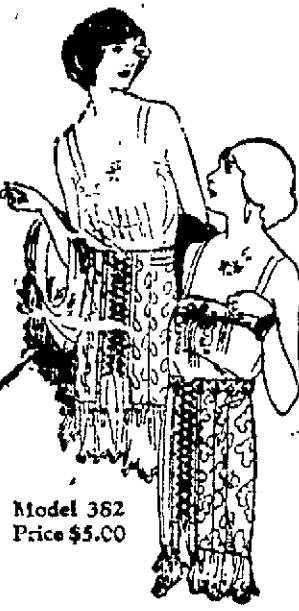

One of the lightly boned corsets which is very popular this season is illustrated here, Model 382. It has a low comfortable elastic top one and one-half inches above the waistline. The medium length skirt is cut straight around the figure. There is a two-inch elastic section at the back.

Comfort

Model 789 is for the stout figure. It is extremely low under the bust and at the front, graduating to medium high back. To give much needed fullness for comfort when seated, a curved section is inserted under the bust.

Support

Attracting favorable attention is the new soft front which Gossards are introducing this year. It gives a flat abdomen without any restriction over digestive organs. Our trained corsetiers will be glad to show you this new model and to help you find which of the nine ideal figure types is yours.

A Washington Dispatch to The New Times says:

Miss Mary Isabel Govin and John D. Schoonmaker Jr. of Kingston N. Y., who are to be married October 14, were the guests in compliment to whom Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tucker gave a large dinner party Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frances Carusi, whose young daughter, Miss Helen Carusi, is one of Miss Govin's bridesmaids, will be hosts at a dinner of twenty covers in compliment to the bride-elect on Saturday evening and will take their guests to the play. Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Govin, parents of the bride, will give a dinner of fifty covers on Monday, October 13, to include the bridal party and a number of relatives coming to Washington for the wedding. Only a family party and very close friends have been invited to the wedding ceremony at 4 o'clock in Bethlehem Chapel. This will be followed by a reception at the family residence in Sheridan Circle, for which several hundred invitations have been issued.

Champlin-Neimeyer.

A very quiet but pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Neimeyer, South Flatbush, on Wednesday afternoon, October 8, at half after two o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Elvora Neimeyer, became the bride of Charles W. Champlin of Highland, N. Y. The house was artistically decorated with cut flowers and foliage, the color scheme being yellow and white. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. W. A. Dalton, pastor of the Highland Presbyterian Church, took place under an arch banded with white. The wedding music was played by Miss Edna Curry of Highland. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Joseph Neimeyer, of Kingston, was gown in white crepe satin trimmed with Chantilly lace and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by her schoolmate, Miss Bess V. E. Schoonmaker, of Hudson, N. Y., who as maid of honor, wore a very pretty creation of green georgette crepe over flesh silk and carried yellow roses. The best man was Theodore Baker of Marlborough, N. Y. Louis H. Neimeyer, Jr., of Rensselaer, N. Y., a brother of the bride, acted as usher. A buffet luncheon was served by Mrs. Daley, after which the happy couple left for a short motor trip through the New England states. During the early part of November Mr. and Mrs. Champlin will sail for St. Petersburg, Florida, where they will spend the winter.

PERFUMES THAT ARE MENACE TO HEALTH

Even Deadly, Sinister Scents Not Uncommon.

The tremendous craze for perfume at the present time is, in a way, an echo of the age of King Solomon; but it is well to remember that not all scents are sweet-smelling savors. Foreign countries abound in sinister scents of many and deadly kinds. There are trees in some of them which breathe out poison, and who betide the traveler who is ignorant enough to rest beneath their shade!

On the hill slopes of Chili, for example, is a tree which the natives look upon as being possessed of an evil spirit. Many cases have occurred where innocent travelers have crept under its branches during the heat of the day, and paid for its shade with their lives. After resting under one of these trees for a short time, the hands and face of a traveler become swollen, as in a case of snakebite, and the surface of the skin is covered with boils.

Many visitors in the vicinity of Valparaiso have succumbed to the influence of this poisonous tree.

The trumpet flower, or datura, found in most tropical countries, although not deadly in the open air, is highly dangerous in a room. Innocent people, fascinated by its coloring and scent, take it indoors, and soon fall into a trance-like slumber, developing a deadly stupor, from which they may possibly never awake. If the trumpet flower were brought into a sick room and left there for the night it would mean certain death for the patient. Recently, in South America, an accusation of murder was brought against a family who were said to have profited financially by the death, in their house, of a wealthy relative. Upon investigation, it was found that some trumpet flowers had got mixed with a bunch of others in a vase, which was allowed to stay in the house all night, and had actually caused the death of the relation.

Some orchids, with their strange and powerful perfume, are capable of drugging the senses and causing faintness. There are some people, too, who cannot stand the scent of roses, while others are prejudiced against the innocent-looking violet.

It is well to make quite certain that any perfume we use, or have in the house, is suited to our temperament. If the least irritation is caused by any scent it should at once be dispensed with, however beautiful it may seem to others. There are few people who do not like the scent of clove; yet, not long ago, there was a case in Zanzibar where the scent of clove was responsible for a British official's contracting an ulcerated throat, with consequent loss of voice.—The World-Wide News Service.

His Unknown Friend

In his book, "My Cricket Memories" (Heinemann), London Tit-Bits says, Jack Hobbs mentions that he once received a letter from Begal, on the Gold coast, in which the writer stated: "I am sending you a nice monkey skin by next mail. Because there is plenty monkey skins in Begal. And also try and send me one hat or anything which you will get. Here is one ostrich feather as my first trial. I hope it will please you that you have received a first trial from your unknown friend. Try and send hat quick. So that I may forward you the monkey skin. I was about to send you the monkey skin. But I want you to know. And I want you to send me that hat before I am your unknown friend, Ramadob."

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 9.—Dullness returned to the stock market today after a sharp rally in industrials in the early trading had carried prices to the high level of the week. Trading in the first hours was in large volume and bullish pools were aggressive. But activity was largely confined to the high priced industrial leaders in which there is supposed to be a dormant short interests. After these demonstrations had been concluded the market lapsed back into the narrow rut into which it has been moving for the last ten days.

Copper stocks were the most conspicuous for their activity and buoyancy. United States Smelting at 36 was up four points from the low of the week, and good records were also made by Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Chile Copper, Utah and Kennecott.

U. S. Steel led a new forward movement in the steel stocks.

Reports from the petroleum industry were bullish today, but they had little or no effect on oil stocks. The railroad stocks were practically neglected, the only activity being in a few of the low priced stocks. Motor stocks regained some of their recent losses, Mack Trucks selling above par for a gain of nearly two points.

Studebaker fractionally higher and Nash Motors up five points from yesterday's close. Cast Iron Pipe led the specialty stocks in a rally in the fourth hour.

Arsenal Unearthed

Twenty-two rusting and rotting muzzle-loading muskets and several copper sabers were unearthed in a sandstone cave on a small island ten miles from the mainland by Emerson Wray, a blue fox farmer. The weapons are believed to have been hidden by a landing party of Russians who acted as hijackers against sealers in the early days of Alaska's Asiatic history.

Sammy Strang Knows All Pellets in Ball Club

S. Strang Nicklin, better known to the baseball world as Sammy Strang, president-manager of the Chittanooga Southern league club, is a frugal man. As a matter of fact, he is forced to be, else both ends might meet.

Sammy naturally is a genius on home-spun economy. Any day he can be found making new baseballs out of old. He shines and buffs pellets which have been soiled in battle with the enthusiasm and grace of a bootblack working on some generous bloke. It has been said that he knows the history of every ball that goes into a game and that the spheroids will almost answer by name.

Of course Sammy keeps a pretty close watch on the balls. Should some one in the bleachers of grand stand get away with a new one he is apt to be charged with grand larceny, while the theft of a soiled or refinished pellet is equivalent to petty larceny.

The climax to Sammy's frugality came late in August when one player in particular asked for a ball.

"What did you do with that ball you were tossing to 'so-and-so' day before yesterday?" queried Nicklin seriously. It so happened that this player had really kept the ball to tease his boss, and Sammy was right.

Chick Evans, former national open and amateur golf champion, volunteered during a visit with President Coolidge to teach the chief executive the rudiments of golf.

Senators' Last Stand Today

Result of Sixth Game at Washington Today Will Give Giants the Title or Carry Issue to Seventh Game—Nehf and Peckinpaugh Likely to Play.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Washington, Oct. 9.—Last stands have a way of thrusting themselves into the history of the world.

There was, for instance, the last stand of the party just prior to getting his face on the bar room floor. He rallied desperately just before he forsook the perpendicular. Then, also, there was the case of the Greeks who stood firm at Thermopole and the late Horatius who declined to permit traffic pass over the well known bridge. Not to mention Joe Guin, who built his at the far end of the Midway at Coney Island.

Today, the Washington Senators prepared to make their last stand before a sympathetic home crowd in the "you-win-I-win" series for the championship of this particular world and even money in the local marts of trade said they would be successful at least to the extent of carrying the issue to the seventh game. The Senators must win the two remaining contests to fall heir to the title, the Giants need only one victory in two starts.

Therefore, things looked very pink for the hired hands of John McGraw, particularly since their left handed young man, Art Nehf, was poised for another sortie against his friends, the enemy. Nehf beat Walter Johnson in the opening game. He will have to beat Jex Zachary today which may be quite another matter. Zachary gave a rather dapper performance against the Giants in the second game, although removed from public view with two out in the ninth.

Ideal weather graced the scene and several thousands all night standees, facing darkened box office windows, waited without visible discomfort. Members of the more deadly sex were in the long wavering-line and reluctantly posed for photographs. They were so reluctant that helpless men were trampled under foot.

Gambblers and ticket speculators were as active as a wild cat stock in the down town hotels. Most of the sure thing boys wanted even money on the Giants for today's game, and indicated their willingness to lay 3 to 2 that New York would win the series. The come-ons held out for odds of 6 to 5 for today and 2 to 1 for the series, taking Washington on the short end. Business was brisk as long as it did not progress beyond the conversational stage.

The speculators were on their feet at the bell, offering to buy tickets rather than sell them. This latter phase will develop shortly before game time when desire will overcome good sense. What tickets were offered for sale, carried a $35 quotation.

All of which plainly indicated that Washington stands ready to do or die in the attempt. The only acceptable conversation revolved around the surmise as to whether Zachary could stop the Giants and Roger Peckinpaugh, injured short stop, would be able to play.

According to Stanley Harris, the boy manager, there was more than a possibility that both surmises were correct. He said last night that Peck would play if it were humanly possible, and if he takes the word of innocent bystanders, he will accept the general verdict that an injured Peck is much to be preferred over a physically sound Miller. The Senators infield has been a terrible thing without Peckinpaugh.

Even if he has to play on one leg, Roker undoubtedly will make the

Tagging Bases In Fifth Game

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The less horseman of Washington had nothing on Bentley, Johnson, Rice in the third. Rice took Young line drive on the run and buried in the general direction of the pitcher's box. Bentley made the error of starting plateward with hit and had to return to third before resuming the journey home. Johnson failed to back up the play in consequence of which, John was in position to relay the when he should have been else. Bentley was retired at the when he should have scored stam up, and Rice got credit for an as when he should have been credited with an error.

Helne Der Groh may now take trick knee to the museum. A ro man by the name of Lindstrom play third base for the Giants with further notice.

That kid is so game that he the voodoo man of India look around for new stuff. He tried take Rice's foul while sliding on graceful shoulder blade and almost got away with it.

McNeely and Rice do not team with any degree of success. Made McNeely chase Frisch's fly right until the youngster's knuckled. The ball fell safe for double. Later, McNeely slipped going after Jackson's fly to right center. Rice was backing up play—at a distance of 20 yards.

All of which indicates that was not the only goat. However that young man will do nicely another goat turns up.

The fickle New York fans did right about face and for once reported the Giants. They don't want the world's title to get away from New York when it comes to a show down. In fact they don't want anything to get away from New York, barring black cholera.

Lindstrom waxed exceeding wroth when Sir Thomas Connors waved him away when he tried collaborate with Frisch in a double steal. Sir Thomas is very majestic. When the young man's mouth to the aspect of an agitated fish. Thomas merely waved him away again. The second wave won argument.

Incidentally Lindstrom seems know how to open a ball game, leaped high into the air to stop McNeely's liner for the first play the game and in the Giants' half the inning singled to center on first ball pitched.

Senators a stronger defensive than they were in the last games. His return would Bluege to his natural position third base, and rehabilitate the fire infield. Johnson gave no filling performance yesterday, yet was Miller's mistakes at third that kept him in a hole almost constantly. So much for that.

The Giants, they must do it, figuring on their own account. Ne in the first place is just recovery from the effects of an injured he was badly puffed yesterday, venting him from taking a firm on the ball. Therefore, it may assumed that it will not exactly act to his advantage today. It definitely known that he would pitch, however.
